Biography

Bryan Abrams (b. November 16, 1969) is a 30-year entertainment industry veteran, affectionately known for his “blue tone,” or rhythm and blues, styled vocals in the world-famous band Color Me Badd®, and his ability to write songs with crossover success in both the Billboard® Hot 100 and R&B charts. With Abrams as the founder, lead vocalist and frontman, Abrams spear-headed Color Me Badd’s success throughout the 1990’s with three #1 (Hot 100 & R&B) hits and numerous other hits in the Top 20 around the globe. Color Me Badd is multi-platinum RIAA-certified recording artist and has sold over 12 million albums worldwide and toured heavily in the United States, Canada, Southeast Asia, Australia and the U.K.

Abrams is highly esteemed amongst industry executives, peers and fans alike with numerous accolades, including two Grammy® nominations, three American Music Awards, two Soul Train® awards and many others.

With a variety of songs placed in a diverse portfolio of radio, TV and film, Abrams’ voice is recognizable across virtually all genres and demographics. Abrams also has even starred as himself in an episode of Beverly Hills 90210 and two reality TV shows, Mission: Manband and Dr. Phil, and a variety of talk shows such as Jimmy Kimmel, The View and Jay Leno.

After suffering for 25 years from alcoholism, Abrams is now celebrating his recovery and has dedicated his life to addiction awareness advocacy, focusing on minority and underserved community issues, and philanthropy work.

Abrams is currently working to tell his story by releasing material from a 10-year vault of solo music he's written, produced and recorded to create a media trifecta, consisting of never-before-heard music, a documentary and a book, detailing the murder of his father, childhood traumas, the rise and fame of Color Me Badd, the band's aftermath, numerous struggles with police arrests, family issues, health crises, addiction, an eating disorder and legal issues. Already cleverly titled (to be announced), the project aims to serve as inspiration and empowerment for men and women who, in spite of their struggle, can reach their dreams and accomplish happiness—a mantra that our actions are merely what we do and not who we are.

Abrams is married, has three children, resides in his original hometown of Oklahoma City and is proudly an enrolled member of the Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma.
